COURSE
Dangerous Goods by Road

_____

One day course, Computer-Based or Virtual Training

Purpose

This course assists organizations transporting dangerous goods by road, and road freight industry personnel, interpret and apply the Australian Code for the Transport of Dangerous Goods by Road and Rail (ADG7.7). An understanding of the concepts behind the Code will ensure compliance with the law and protect those who transport dangerous goods.

What you get

The course is designed to provide comprehensive training in the theory and practical aspects of shipping dangerous goods by road. Throughout the course, you will examine the ADG code and learn a systematic approach to packaging and documenting a hazardous shipment for road transport. There are plenty of follow-up exercises to reinforce the knowledge acquired and to ensure all Australian regulations are complied with.

All training materials are supplied. Participants are advised to download ADG7.7 from our web-site free-of-charge.

Course Qualification and Recognition

A certificate is issued on successful completion of an end-of-course questionnaire. There is no qualification period stipulated in ADG7.7 however, as the Regulations change and memory fades, it is recommended participants revalidate every TWO YEARS.

Licensing is required for Drivers moving BULK DANGEROUS GOODS. This course is NOT suitable for those drivers

Who Should Attend?

If you are involved with the packaging, documentation, consigning or control of hazardous materials for transport by road, then this course is for you. It's also ideal for freight forwarders and consolidators involved with road freight, store and dispatch personnel and anyone involved with transporting dangerous goods by road.

This course is not suitable for drivers transporting dangerous goods in bulk.

Level of Competency

No previous knowledge or experience with road transport or dangerous goods is required to complete the course. A basic level of English comprehension and literacy skills is required.
